

DirectDeck™

Listen to your iPod or other portable player through your car's cassette deck

Thank you, and welcome to DirectDeck, the easiest way to enjoy your music collection through your car's audio cassette deck. DirectDeck lets you connect your iPod, MP3 player, CD player — any portable audio player with a stereo headphone jack — directly to your in-dash cassette player, and listen through your stereo speakers.

Getting Started

1. Plug DirectDeck into the 1/8" (3.5mm) stereo headphone jack of your portable player.
2. Insert DirectDeck into your cassette player as you would any tape cassette.
3. Adjust your portable player to a low volume level.
4. Press the Play button on your car's cassette deck.
5. Adjust the car stereo volume for desired listening level.

Some Tips About Sound

When you use DirectDeck, you have two separate volume controls — the one on your car stereo, and the one on your portable player or iPod. The way you adjust them will affect the sound quality.

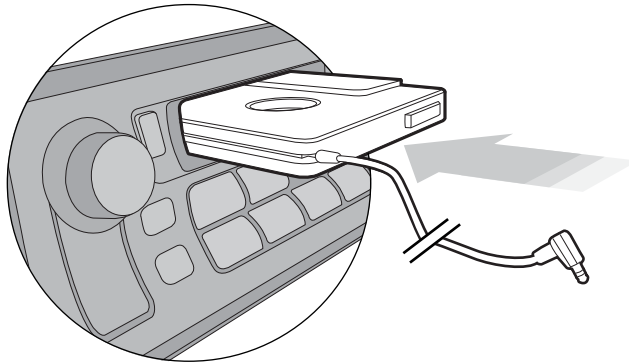

Too much volume from the portable player may overdrive the car stereo, causing distorted, fuzzy sound. If this happens, adjust your portable player's volume down and the car stereo's volume up to the desired level.

Too little volume from the portable player may result in low output or no signal at all to the car stereo. In this case, increase the volume of the portable player.

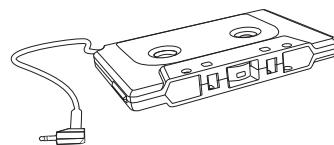

Muffled sound or no sound? If yours is an auto-reversing cassette deck, try pressing your cassette deck's Reverse button to change sides. (On some cassette players, this button may be labeled Side or A/B. Check your owner's manual for details.)
